GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT OPTIMISTIC

Rains which have fallen fairly generally over the province during the past few days have materially improved the situation with respect to crop conditions, and have saved the crop from actual drought in several districts. The feeling in the province at this date is one of optimism and the indications are for the harvesting of a very fair crop.

In some districts prior to these rains the grain had begun to burn, and in one or two sections farmers were actually ploughing up crops. The rains of June 28 and 29, however, brought needed moisture.

Precipitation during these rains totalled from one-third to an inch and one-third. The rains have been accompanied by cool weather.

Wheat is appearing in the shot blade in some districts, and generally speaking this grain will be short in straw. Other grains are in fairly good shape. From 30 to 50 per cent of the rye is being cut for feed, owing to the probability of a shortage in hay crops, and the likelihood of a short price for this grain in the fall. Alfalfa is being cut in the south and is showing fairly heavy yields.

The grasshopper menace is practically under control in all districts, and the loss will be very light from this cause, although farmers are urged to continue their efforts for the next few weeks.

South-western areas—The districts from Calgary south to Lethbridge and the boundary and westward, have been favored with further satisfactory rains, and generally speaking over these areas the crop conditions are very encouraging. Rye stands from three to four feet, and much of it is being cut for feed. Wheat is shooting out from 14 to 18 inches, oats and barley 12 to 14 inches.

but still appearing in great numbers on land not yet cultivated.

South-eastern areas—Recent rains from Calgary and Lethbridge eastward and in the Medicine Hat district have been fairly heavy and have brought relief to many sections although some localities still report dry conditions. Points along the main line of the C. P. R. from Calgary eastward report good rains during the past few days, with conditions much improved. Grain previously had shown signs of burning in some sections, and in some cases late sown crop had shown poor germination. This stuff, however, will be much helped by the late rains, although the yields will be only fair.

ported in many sections over the central area have been alleviated by the late rains. From Calgary to Red Deer in localities where the grain had commenced to suffer from drought, conditions are somewhat better. Old district which has had drier conditions than usual, reports half an inch of rain in the past two days. Along the Goose Lake line and east of Red Deer and Camrose to the boundary of the province, prospects are fairly satisfactory and an average crop is expected, although the recent rains have not been as heavy in these districts as others. Hay crops will be light, owing to the very late start and dry conditions which have prevailed. Fall rye is also light in the central areas. No serious damage from hail is reported.

Northern areas—Rains in these areas, too, have improved the situation considerably, although lack of moisture during the earlier growing period seriously retarded crops in some localities. Heavy rains have been fairly general over these districts in the past few days, and the indications are that grain yields will average up fairly well. Wheat will be short in straw, however. Hay crops are light but with continued moisture will make an average crop. Grasshoppers have not offered any serious menace in the northern districts. Farmers in northern areas are advised to put up all the hay possible.

Hail—Several districts in the province report hail storms, which have done damage within a limited area. Generally speaking there has been no extensive damage from this cause.

Royal Marriage to Unite the Balkans

One thing the Great War proved was the futility of depending upon royal alliances to maintain national alliances. The only royal marriage that seemed to carry on in the war and exert influence was that of King Constantine of Greece to the sister of the ex-Kaiser. This union did much to prolong the war and bedevil Greek politics, and its evil effect has not yet been wholly dissipated. But in the Balkans the idea survives that a royal marriage will do much to draw together the nations represented. There is no doubt that the belief that the Little Entente will be strengthened lies behind the union-to-day of King Alexander of Serbia and Princess Marie of Roumania. We trust the prognostications of the Balkan statesmen to this effect may prove correct. If it has peace, Jugo-Slavia should become one of the most powerful nations in Europe, ranking behind only France, Germany and Russia. War might reduce it to its original elements and even shatter these.

True Love Match? Of Course!

Naturally the Queen of Roumania protests that the marriage is not one of political convenience. Even among kings and princesses," she says, "there is such a thing as love at first sight. That is what happened in this case." But this is not the first desired to marry Grand Duchess Titania, daughter of the late Czar. It is known that the Prime Minister of Serbia laid the matter before the Czar in 1914, but it is not known whether the Czar did not think the young prince a suitable match or whether the marriage would have gone forward but for the great interruption. At that time Prince Alexander although he had distinguished himself in the Balkan war of 1912, was no such important person as he is to-day. He was then the heir apparent to the crown of Serbia, which had come to his father the result of a brutal murder. To-day he is ruler of a powerful nation. The prince had been rather a sickly youth, given to reading rather than to the martial exercises his countrymen delight in, but the Balkan war did much to improve his health, while the great war made a man of him.

A Fighting Prince.

It was he who ordered the mobilization of the Serbian army and he led it with great gallantry. He was severely wounded in the fighting around Belgrade and narrowly escaped capture at Nish. Several attempts were made to assassinate him both when he was regent and after he became king. It was while he was lying in a Paris hospital suffering from appendicitis in 1921 that he met the princess who is to become his wife, and if he was from the first strongly attracted by her it is not a matter for wonder since Princess Marie (pet name Mignon) has been known as the prettiest princess in Europe. Her photographs show her to be a girl whose beauty would attract attention even if she were a commoner and that is something that could not honestly be said about several alleged beautiful princesses. She inherits almost so much of the grace and gaiety of her mother, who is one of the strongest personalities to be found in European royalty.

At one time the name of the princess was associated with that of the Prince of Wales. She had been educated in England and her mother was a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. The young people were often in each other's company, but it is presumed the sentiments they excited in each other were merely cousinly. It is to be noted, too, that the Prince of Wales as the most eligible young bachelor in the world, has had his name sentimentally associated with that of every marriageable princess in Europe as well as with several girls who are not princesses. Later on it was rumored that the princess was to become the bride of King Boris of Bulgaria. This was officially denied by the courts of both countries, and about the same time it was denied that King Alexander would become the husband of Princess Sophie, daughter of Prince Emanuel, a member of the Bourbon-Orléans family. But after the meeting between the slowly convalescing king and Mignon, the rumors were followed by no denials and within a few months of their meeting there was an official announcement.

As to the suitability of the match there can be little question. The princess is a charming girl of twenty-two, by no means too young to undertake her important responsibilities, and the king is a man of thirty-four who has proved his manhood on the field of battle. There is certainly material here for romance, heightened by the fact that the countries which are thus supposed to be drawn closer together were allies in the war and suffered together. The air of romance, too, will be heightened by the traditions of the Serbians concerning marriages, royal as well as plebeian. When the king of Roumania reaches the gates of Belgrade, he will be met by King Alexander and the mayor bearing a golden tray with bread and salt as a pledge of Slavic hospitality. When the bride enters her new home she will carry with her a loaf of bread and a jug of wine, symbols of the joy she is to bring to the king. She will carry also articles of clothing for herself and her husband, for it is a Serbian custom that the bride provides not only her own trousseau but wedding raiment for her husband. She will then kiss an appropriate male child to indicate her desire that their first born may be a boy.

Biting Its Way to Sunken Treasure

Dredge Has Started to Dig Up
Jesuits' Chest from River Bed

The great hunt for the Jesuit treasure chest located a few days ago by a magnetic diving rod, is now on. Promptly at noon to-day the lighter "Baltic," equipped with a steam operated clamshell dredge, was towed into position on the Dye River, just beside where the iron box, believed to contain the golden altar vessels of old Fort Sainte Marie and the pay chest of the troops of New France, has been located. At 12 o'clock the clamshell dredge took its first mouthful of silt. By sundown, when digging operations were completed for the day, a hole of

CAPITAL GOSSIP AND PROVINCIAL NEWS

Importance of cutting a portion of the rye crop throughout the province for hay purposes, is emphasized by officials of the Agricultural Department. The likelihood of a shortage of hay crop in the northern part of the province makes it an urgent matter that farmers who have rye crops put up some of this for hay. The rye should be cut at once for this purpose, and a ton and a half should be allowed for each head of stock on the farm.

A total of 30,000 acres of land has been listed with the officials of the irrigation council for sale through the government plan to bring in settlers for the lands of the Lethbridge Northern irrigation project. These lands listed are all improved and are listed at from $12.50 to $35.00 an acre. Dominion and Provincial officials are assisting in the colonization scheme for these lands.

Following a conference between Premier Greenfield, H. Stutchbury, Trades Commissioner, John T. Stirling, Chief Inspector of Mines, and George Pratt, Government Engineer, on the question of marketing of Alberta coal, a further conference will be held this week with some of the coal operators of the Province. The entire situation will be discussed thoroughly.

The new civil service superannuation act is now in effect. This provides a fund for superannuation of civil servants, the retiring age for men being 65 and for women 55. Under this new scheme four per cent is deducted from the salaries of all employees to which is added four per cent by the government, creating a fund, with added interest, which will provide annuities to civil servants on retirement from the service. Allowance is made for the length of service of employees with the government previous to the Act coming into force. The Act is administered by a board of which Hon. Alex. Ross is chairman, and F. Smalls, Civil Service Commissioner, and D. Donaldson of the civil service organization are the other members.

Plans have now been completed for the series of sittings to be held by Professor D. A. McGibbon in his investigation of banking and credit conditions in Alberta. Sittings commenced at Vermilion on June 29th, and are being held as follows:

Camrose, July 4th; Hardisty, July 6th; Coronation, July 8th; Youngstown, July 11th; Medicine Hat, July 14th; Foremost, July 17th; Lethbridge, July 19th; Macleod, July 21; Calgary, July 24; Red Deer, July 26;

ten feet square had been dug. If progress is continued at this rate of speed it is thought possible that the box may be recovered by Saturday morning. Captain Carson, who is in charge of the expedition, stated that he was making preparations to descend in his diving suit then to affix the chains about the box to hoist it up by derrick. His only fear is that when the hole is enlarged the current may sweep the silt back again. To guard against this he is going to enlarge the hole to dimensions of 30 feet square. A sluice will also be erected upon the deck of the "Baltic" to strain the mud, in case other and smaller boxes or effects may have been lost in the mud, might scramble to safety when the treasure chest went overboard.

Additional information to the story of the lost treasure box was given yesterday by Richard McCormack, whose land runs down to the river where the box is believed to lie. Mr. McCormack's family have been settled upon this farm for more than a century and he said that his grandfather had told him of an old family of Indians who lived near the ruins of old Fort Sainte Marie when the McCormacks first arrived. The Indians Stettler, July 28; Sangudo, August 1; Grande Prairie, August 5; Peace River, August 8; Edmonton, August 11. Prof. McGibbon will attend all these sittings and will take evidence on the various points included within the scope of the investigation, his intention being to hear in particular the complaints of farmers who find the present banking system unsatisfactory. Other interests, including the bankers themselves, will also be heard. When the list of sittings has been concluded the commissioner will prepare a report to the government.

T. A. P. Frost who has been in the service of the Soldier's Civil Re-establishment for several years as investigator of mental cases, has resigned to take up a position under the Alberta government as psychiatric investigator. His work will be of a medico-legal nature. He is taking over his new duties at the end of June and this will necessitate his removal from Calgary, where he has lived many years, to Edmonton. L. L. Johnson, unit administrator of the S. C. R. said Saturday, that Mr. Frost's services had been very efficient and that the government was fortunate in securing so capable a man for the important post which has been created.

A clinic for babies and children of pre-school age will be held every afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. in connection with the public health exhibit given by the provincial department of health in the Women's building, Edmonton fair. All mothers with babies and children of this age are invited to bring them to this clinic. Doctors and nurses will be in attendance. The regular child welfare clinic will be held as usual in the Civic Block, Tuesday and Friday.

Franklin Peterson, dominion news editor of the Times, London, England, was a visitor to the government buildings during the past week and had a conference with Premier Greenfield and other government officials. Mr. Peterson was particularly interested in gathering data concerning the question of the British embargo on Canadian cattle.

The annual report of the department of agriculture, containing valuable statistical and other information, has now come from the printer's and is ready for distribution.

Use of the moving picture for instructional purposes will become extensive in the near future in the department of agriculture. Already films are under way which will give instruction in the live-stock and dairy industry. Another picture will deal with the production of pure seed, and still another with the eradication of weeds and soil drifting. A general Alberta picture, depicting all phases of life in the province, dwelling particularly on agriculture is also in preparation for publicity purposes.

A delegation from the Edmonton Auto and Good Roads Association met Hon. Alex. Ross, minister of public works during the past week, to discuss certain improvements in roads in the vicinity of the capital city. The delegation was informed that work was already in progress in many of the places referred to.

The new tax recovery act passed at the last session is now in operation. Land owners in arrears of taxes after July 1st, will still have until August 1st, to pay up, but if arrears remain unpaid after that date, the municipality in which the land lies files a caveat against the land, and within one year from the date of filing, if the taxes are still unpaid, the municipality may take title to the land. During the year, owners may pay arrears and the caveat may be withdrawn. After title is taken by the municipality, the owner may still redeem the land up to the time it is offered for sale by public auction. Provision is also made for giving the tax delinquents due notice with warning during the month of March that their land is in arrears and liable to forfeiture and if then not redeemed within the redemption period they pass finally into the possession of the municipalities, free from all encumbrances except claims for seed grain or relief liens.

Volume of business handled by the egg and poultry marketing service of the provincial and dominion governments in Alberta has grown 300 per cent over last year, according to a statement by J. H. Hare, Alberta poultry and marketing commissioner. Over 20 car loads of eggs have already been handled this year by the service, and the staff is kept busy with the amount of business offered. A large staff is being maintained. This service is a co-operative one between the farmers, the Alberta and the Dominion men working in the field and the provincial men operating the marketing stations.

Hon. V. W. Smith, minister of railways and telephones, who also administers the irrigation act, has just completed a tour of the southern irrigation districts, and the construction work of the Lethbridge Northern project.

box lost when the lives of the missionaries at Sainte Marie were endangered by hostile Indians.

According to Mr. McCormack's remembrance the Jesuits told his father that the box was supposed to contain the altar vessels, costly hangings and precious historical documents dealing in detail with the initial period of missionary work in Huronia. Although the priests searched carefully for a couple of weeks and made various excavations in the banks, they found nothing.

One reason for their failure is ascribed to the great topographical changes which have taken place in the country since the building of Fort Sainte Marie the First. During the shrinking of 300 years the river has passed greatly and its mouth has advanced as the height of its waters lowered. Much new land has come into sight. The old Jesuit records, while accurate at the time of their inditement, are now hopelessly incorrect. The Jesuit searches did not make allowances for topographical changes and they dug many exploratory pits and holes at the mouth of the present river, not realizing that they were almost half a mile away from the real site. In the present search close attention has been paid to topographical changes and careful calculations point to the fact that the chest has been located where documentary evidence points to its being lost.

The active treasure salvaging operations have created a sensation throughout the district. During the afternoon the field adjoining the dredge was crowded with spectators. They came by automobile, motorboat, bicycle and buckboard. Many walked from Midland to be present.

Was a Blockade Runner

It would seem that Romance has thrown her mantle over the spot. The maple cluster that grows upon the mound of what was once Fort Sainte Marie, overlooks the dredge from the distance, where the pleasant meadow is now was once a virgin forest, crowded with hostile savages and far beneath the silt and mud of years lies the sole memento that has remained undisturbed from the coming of the white man to Huronia. Even the lighter "Baltic" herself is not without high lights of romance. Built in 1850, she originally was a side-wheeler, running on the great Mississippi River. The river gamblers, made famous by Bret Harte and Mark Twain, once trod her decks and played their games of chance. As a blockade runner in Civil War days, she was at once the pride of the South and the despair of the North. Her owners in those riotous years made a huge fortune by sneaking her past the guns of the Northern fleet. Later her adventurous career took her into Canadian waters, and for the past two decades, she has been in Georgian Bay, first as a steamer, and now, in the twilight of her career, as a humble lighter, truly a great fall from her proud eminence as an old-time Mississippi floating palace, but her fine traditions will be closed gloriously if the long-lost Jesuit treasure box is drawn from its age-old resting place and opened upon her decks.—Mail and Empire.

The Swiss Glaciers Give Up Dead

In the course of Sir James Barrie's remarkable Rectorial Address on May 3 to the students of the ancient Scottish University of St. Andrews, he made passing reference to the "strange Alpine story of the youth who fell down a glacier and was lost, and how a scientific companion computed that the body would appear again at a certain date and place many years afterwards." Sir James doubtless referred to a little story entitled, "Mrs. Knollys," which appeared in the Century magazine in 1883, by a Boston lawyer, named F. J. Stimson, who (under the pseudonym of "J. S. of Dale") was a popular short-story writer of the day. The story of "Mrs. Knollys" tells how Charles Knollys, a handsome young English civil servant of 21 years, and Mary, his pretty English bride, aged 18, set happily forth upon their honeymoon to the Swiss Alps. To the Carinthian village of Heiligenblut they went, and there they strolled about, climbed the mountains, sat hand in hand watching the gorgeous scenery and the sunsets and courted one another in all the rapturous bliss of an idyllic marriage.

Then, one day, whilst they were crossing the great Pasterzen glacier which runs from Western Austria into Carinthia, Charles Knollys slipped in a crevasse and vanished utterly from the surface of the earth. The young bride, crazed with horror, would have thrown herself into the clear blue gulf of the crevasse had she not been forcibly restrained by the guides. But day after day, and week after week, she returned to the scene and sat, tearless, staring into the chasm as though she would have recalled her mate from its profound depths. The kindly Swiss guides searched for the body in vain; the depths were impenetrable. Still the distracted little bride and widow did not give up hope, until one day by chance an old German scientist, who was investigating and studying with characteristic exactitude the movement of glaciers, blurted out the truth—the body of Charles Knollys was gone forever. So, the heart-broken girl decided to go back to the little cottage home in the Surrey hills to dwell alone with the memories of her gallant fair-haired boy husband.

But a year later she was startled to receive a letter from the Herr Doctor Zimmerman. It was a quaint epistle, a typical mixture of scientific terms and sentiment, but the substance of it was that the Herr Doctor that in forty-five years time the body of Charles Knollys would be found; he had most carefully studied and checked his measurements of the movement of the Pasterzen Glacier and he declared that on or about such a date and in such a spot the body would be recovered. Mrs. Knollys took courage again; once more she had something to live for. She began to beautify her little home, though the tears would come in spite of herself as she handled the presents her beloved husband had given her, and as she remembered the plans they had made for the cottage. One room only she never entered—it was the room they hoped to have had for a nursery. They had no child. For the most part she was very bright and cheerful—a sweet-faced woman, neither widow nor maid, especially beloved in the community by the young men and

U.S. FARMERS CO-OP. SALES A BILLION

Chicago—One billion dollars! That's the amount of grain, livestock and farm produce the American farm bureau federation expects farmers will market through co-operative selling agencies in 1922, J. R. Howland, its president, says.

And the Federation won't have to make much of a leap over its 1921 figure to accomplish this 1922 aim. For in 1921 fully $800,000,000 worth of farm produce was sold co-operatively.

"The cure-all for every agricultural problem lies in the farmer helping himself," Howard says.

"We are seeking to market farm produce through the farmers own controlled dairies, graneries, livestock and fruit exchanges, wool pools and other non self-seeking agencies.

"And now every farmer is pulling with us toward this profit sharing goal."

Agencies and committees through which the federation is working out its profit-sharing plans are:

Grain committee operating the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., with 50,000 members who will market co-operatively 125 million bushels of wheat.

Livestock committee operating the National Livestock Producers Association.

Dairy committee.

Fruit committee operating the Federated Fruit Growers, a sales agency owned and controlled by growers.

Wool committee which has co-ordinated scattered wool pooling activities into a practical organization that marketed 22,298,856 pounds last year.

Tobacco and cotton committee The Burley Growers Tobacco association has been formed and now markets 80 per cent of Kentucky's annual yield of 160 million pounds of tobacco.

girls, who confided to her all their joys and troubles. Thus the life of Mrs. Knollys passed quietly and evenly in England, month by month, while month by month the great Pasterzen Glacier in the Alps moved imperceptibly on its sluggish way.

In the summer of 1882—forty-five years after Charles Knollys disappeared from view—the little Swiss Village of Heiligenblut was haunted by a tall, white-haired English lady. Every morning when the Eastern sun penetrated the depths of the ice cavern at the base of the Pasterzen Glacier, Mrs. Knollys would sit for hours peering into the recesses of the cave. Then a day came when, as the sun rose over the Eastern mountain top and began to lighten the cavern, she seemed to behold the suggestion of a face gazing at her; the sunlight grew stronger, until she saw before her, enclosed in the crystal mass, safe and unharmed, the body of her husband—the ghost of her youth! There he lay, a smile on his boyish face, clad in the quaint costume of half a century past, his blue eyes open, no care on his clear young brow, just as he was on their honeymoon. And the aged woman wept, while the boy with his still faint smile, looked at her with unseeing eyes through the ice-veil.

That is the fiction, but there are plenty of facts to justify the tale. In October, 1886, Captain Henry Arkwright, aide-de-camp to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland of the day, a guide and two porters, were killed by an avalanche on Mount Blanc. Thirty years later—in August, 1897—the body of Captain Arkwright was recovered, the clothing and personal effects absolutely intact, and the body, minus the head, perfectly preserved and life-like. In 1820 three guides fell into a crevasse in a Swiss glacier; forty years later the glacier disgorged them in a state of perfect preservation. In both cases recovery had been predicted.

THE EMPRESS THEATRE CURRENT ATTRACTIONS

Paramount Star Supported by an Excellent Cast in "The Crimson Challenge"

Dorothy Dalton in her latest Paramount picture "The Crimson Challenge," heads a cast of really popular players. She has for her leading man Jack Mower, who played one of the principal parts in Cecil B. De Mille's "Saturday Night."

Frank Campeau, one of the most experienced players in the profession, has the part of a villain so black that he makes soot look like snow. Clarence Burton who has popularized Mexican bandit roles, also plays a villainous role, and the trio of villains—an unusual feature of a picture—is completed by George Field.

The picture, which was adapted from Vingie E. Roe's popular novel "Tharon of Lost Valley" by Beulah Marie Dix, will be shown at the Empress Theatre, next Friday and Saturday. Paul Powell directed.

DIES ONE DAY, SHOT THE NEXT

Still, It Turns Out All Right In "The Crimson Challenge."

The victim of an assassin's bullet doesn't generally die before he has been shot, in real life, but then in real life it is different.

Will E. Walling, playing the role of Jim Lust, father of the heroine in "The Crimson Challenge," Dorothy Dalton's new Paramount picture coming to the Empress Theatre next Friday and Saturday had to take it for granted that he had been shot and proceeded to stage the death scene in the first reel, for it so happened that the dying scene of the unfortunate man in his cabin was enacted before the scene in which he is actually shot, and dies.

Frank Campeau, playing Buck Courtney, the murderer, watched the death scene of the victim he was to shoot in scenes to be made on the following day.

"It's always so convenient," grinned Campeau, "to see the effect in advance. Incidentally, I play a worse villain in this picture than in "The Lane That Had no Turning." I thought that was the limit, but this goes it several better. I wonder just how much more villainous I can become and still live?"

However, Campeau doesn't live to the end of the picture, for he is killed by Tharon, the heroine, when she avenges her father's murderer.

HAROLD LLOYD IN "SAILOR MADE MAN."

"Would I like to be in the navy?" grinned Harold Lloyd in reply to his questioner who had just watched him film some of the scenes for the Associated Exhibitors feature comedy, "A Sailor Made Man," which will be the feature of the ALL-COMEDY bill at the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

"Would I like to be in the navy? Well, I don't know. Of course it has its advantages but at the same time it has its drawbacks. Take for instance the sailor who returned unexpectedly from sea and thought he'd surprise his wife.

"He sneaked in the kitchen door and saw his wife busying herself at the china closet. Stealing up behind her he kissed her on the neck. Imagine his surprise when, without turning round, she said:

"Just set the milk in the ice-box. You'll find the empty bottle outside the door."

"I'll bet that sailor favors disarmament," grinned Lloyd.

AH, HA! THREE VILLAINS IN DOROTHY DALTON'S PARA- MOUNT PICTURE

"THE CRIMSON CHALLENGE."

The cast of Dorothy Dalton's latest Paramount picture, "The Crimson Challenge," which is seen at the Empress Theatre next Friday and Saturday reads like a blue book of screen villains. There are several bad men in the picture, but three of them are noted for their ruffianly records in the annals of the screen. These are Frank Campeau, Clarence Burton and George Field.

Frank Campeau plays the part of

"Buck Courtney" in the picture—a regular "Trampas" part and the kind that brought Campeau fame when he toured with the "Virginian."

Clarence Burton not long ago finished the role of a bad Mexican in Cecil B. De Mille's production, "Fool's Paradise," and another similar Mexican character in Gloria Swanson's Paramount picture, "Her Husband's Trade Mark." In this new picture he will be seen as "Black Bart," said to be one of the most despicable characters ever put on the screen.

George Field, who plays "Wylackie," a high-cast Mexican villain, appeared as "Pedro" in "Fool's Paradise."

These three bad men are guaranteed enough that there will be more shivers per inch of film in "The Crimson Challenge" than any other picture which has been produced recently. It is quite unusual to see more than one or two heavy characters in a picture, especially heavies of such reputation and screen magnitude as these three players. Among them, they have doubtless committed every conceivable kind of misdeed under the sun—that is, in the realms of Shadowland. Outside of their make-ups, however, they are three of the mildest-mannered gentlemen in the world.

ZANE GRAY, MIRACLE MAN

Everyone knows that Zane Gray is a wonderfully popular writer, in fact, by far the most popular not only of the present day but of recent literary history. But how many know just how amazingly popular he is? Even the man who is making Zane Gray's wonderful novels into equally wonderful photoplays—Benjamin B. Hampton—says that he can scarcely keep up with the leaping, bounding sales record of Mr. Gray's recent novels.

Since Mr. Hampton began making his big all-star photo-plays of the Zane Gray novels, beginning about three years ago with "Desert Gold," the sales of those novels, and even of ones previously published and now in the hands of a reprint publishing firm, have broken all records. There is no doubt that the splendid photoplays are responsible for a part of this popularity, just as the popularity of the novels and the name of Zane Gray has caused crowds of the writer's admirers to see the photoplays. All of them, by the way, have been released by the W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation.

The reaction of the novels and photoplays upon each other, coupled with the phenomenal popularity of Zane Gray's style and its literary universal appeal to all classes of mankind, has built up the most astounding demand for this author's books on record. His publishers, Harper Brothers, and the reprint publishers, Grosset and Dunlap, have been unable to fill orders. But most amazing of all is the fact that each succeeding work from his pen far outdoes previous ones, until it seems that there is no limit. "The Man of the Forest," one of the latest, has distanced his previous works just as far as the former work has outdistanced the one before it.

"The Man of the Forest," in Benjamin B. Hampton's great photoplay, comes to the Empress Theatre soon.

WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITIES FOR MARRIED MEN

25 Divorces in 25 Minutes—New Senate Record.

Ottawa, June 23.—Twenty-five divorces in twenty-five minutes passed the private committee of the senate yesterday.

And This One Wagon Wheels

Mr. Strate was thrown out of employment and started to collect wagon wheels, storing them in his parlour, bedroom and bath. He neglected his family in his mad desire to get styes of wheels possessed by no other experts, his wife charges in suing him for divorce.

This Man Collects Stamps

A Chicago husband's absorption in collecting postage stamps was cited as grounds for separate maintenance by Mrs. Etta M. Wilson, in court. She asserted her husband, W. W. Wilson, was a model husband before he took up the collection and sale of stamps. He is the president of a stamp company and was said to have an income of $7,500 a year.

This One Takes Empty Beer Kegs

Mrs. S. Roe, of Lincoln, Neb., has created a sensation in the Superior Court when she entered suit for divorce, charging that her husband has developed a hobby in the last year collecting unemployed beer kegs. The plaintiff testified that her husband has spent all his spare time gazing at the kegs in mournful and reminiscent moods and refused to purchase their daughter a radiophone. Mrs. Roe explained that the defendant has filled three rooms of their four-room bungalow with empties. The presiding judge has held Mr. Roe for further questioning, presumably concerning a recipe.

Green Peas Cause Divorce.

It would seem hardly credible that the eating of green peas could supply grounds for divorce, but some few years ago at the Pathological Congress held in Paris curious statements were made about vegetables and the effect they produced on the human race. Haricot beans, which we heard so much of in war time, were supposed to give brain and brawn, spinach would prevent dawdling in the household, but green peas were to be taboo, for it was said that they developed frivolity and made women capricious and reckless. Men and women flirted under their influence, and the pathologists attributed a majority of the divorce cases to the eating of peas.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

George Parker, has taken a position with P. Burns Co., at Grand Forks, B.C.

The American authorities have raised the tariff on Canadian wheat going into that country to 30 cents per bushel.

The Peter North, who was killed recently by being gored by a mad bull was at one time a resident of Lethbridge.

Miss Nellie McNichol, who has been in attendance at Moulton Ladies' College, Toronto, is home for the summer holidays.

The provincial hail insurance board will insure for only $6, $8 or $10 per acre. Other companies, however, will insure for any amount.

James Ringland spent the week end with his family in Macleod, returning to Lethbridge on Monday where he is engaged in cement contracting.

There was a light fall of rain on Tuesday, accompanied by some hail, but it was very small and so far as we can learn, did no damage to crops in this vicinity.

Green peas and new potatoes were taken by Wesley Shields from his garden on the 5th of July. We imagine it would be hard to beat this in any man's country.

C. G. Segee, representing United Creditors Association, and who has spent several days here this week mutually profitable to his company and Macleod merchants, will return to Macleod on Monday, July 10th, to close up some unfinished business. Mr. Segee will probably spend a week here on his return trip and can be consulted at the Queen's hotel.

William Fleming came in from the Waterton Lakes on Thursday last, returning the following day with his family who will spend the summer out there. Friend "Bill" is running the only barber shop there and is said to be filling a long felt want in his usual manner. It is said that he seriously contemplates instituting a lodge of the three links at Waterton.

The following weed inspectors were appointed at a recent monthly meeting of the Municipal District of Bright held on June 30th. Each Councillor will have his own weed inspector this season and weeds are to be taboo. The different districts follow: District No. 1, Steve Gautier, District No. 2, Henry Doyle, District 3, John Edgar, District 4, W. N. Damon, District 5, Val Connolly, District 6, — Green.

Frank Corrigan's many friends are wondering what has become of him as he has not been seen in his old haunts for some weeks. Well, the truth of the matter is he went east several weeks ago on holiday visit he has had in contemplation for a long time, and expects to remain there for at least three months. Bring us a large sized calendar, Frank, the hard kind one can stand on if necessary.

Seed and weed branch superintendent, W. J. Stephen, has just completed an inspection tour of the central and southern districts. Mr. Stephen says the weeds receiving the particular attention of the fighting forces are Canadian and sow thistle, stinkweed, wild oats, blue lettuce, veined dock and mustard. From what we can gather farmers are allowed to handle the Russian thistle proposition in a manner most convenient to themselves, being given their own time for doing this work.

Hon. V. Smith, minister of railways and irrigation visited Macleod last week and discussed irrigation with the trustees of the Macleod irrigation project. He drove over the proposed line south and while at the intake also drove over the United project. He was very favorably impressed with all that he saw and will place matters before the cabinet at its first meeting as to the beginning of operations on the Macleod irrigation project this year. If this were to be done farmers would be assured of plenty of employment during the coming winter season.

Major Frank Fane, a well-known military man and former head of the Soldier's Settlement Board, is dead. Major Fane came to Alberta in the early eighties and served as did so many others in the ranks of the N.W. M. Police, being stationed in the Macleod barracks under Supt. Sam. Steele who commanded "D" division. Major Fane was married to Miss Margaret Duff, of Lethbridge, who survives him. When the great war broke out he went overseas with the 3rd Canadian Mounted Rifles, serving with this regiment in France until wounded at Ploegsteert. He was well and favorably known in the south country.

The government mixing stations are nearly all working overtime these days in an endeavor to keep up with the demand for the poisoned bait to be fed the hoppers. The insects have now reached the winged stage and are beginning to move around more freely, tracts of pasture land in which the pests were allowed to hatch out unmolested now beginning to turn loose their insect life upon near-by grain fields. Undoubtedly the hopper in the earlier stages of its existence is more susceptible to the poisoned bait than later on but any time up to the flying stage they are fairly able to manage, but after that it is harder to control them, they not appearing to take to the bait so readily. The question has been asked will the pests be as numerous next year as this. Some are of the opinion they won't be, but then, who knows?

Mr. D. G. MacKenzie, of the firm of Gillis & MacKenzie, is moving his household effects up from Macleod this week. Mrs. MacKenzie and son have also arrived. They will occupy a suite over the general offices of the coal company.—Blairmore Enterprise.

Regular Meeting Town Council

Regular meeting of the town council held on the evening of July 3rd.

Present, the mayor, Councillors A. McLeod, Moreash, Morris, Gardiner, McNichol and Thewlis.

Councillor Moreash handed in his declaration of office and took his seat at the council board.

Minutes of previous meetings read and on motion adopted.

Communications were read from R. B. Owens, provincial sanitary engineer re sewerage disposal plant. The mayor to answer.

The medical health officer's report was received and ordered filed.

McNichol—Thewlis—That W. J. Price be granted a restaurant license under the Restaurant Act.—Carried.

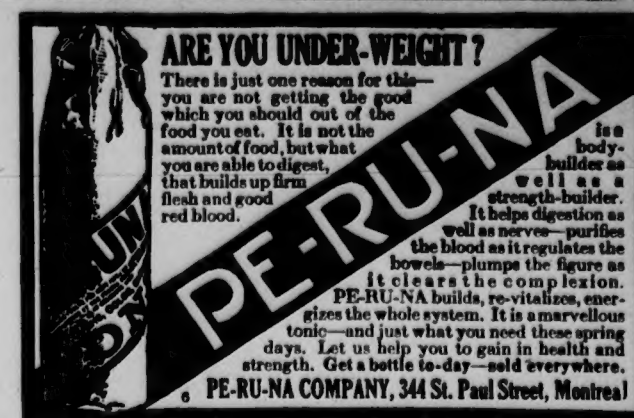

The W. and P. committee were instructed to put a price on the old Anderton house, south side of 19th street, with authority to sell.

Fawcett—Thewlis—That Councillor Moreash take the place on committee formerly held by ex-councillor A. McDonald.—Carried.

The question of cutting thistles on old race track was left in the hands of Supt. Pearson.

McNichol—Moreash—That plot in cemetery (half lot) be given to Mrs. McDonald free, whose husband was an employee of the town.

That the matter of fencing the old Anderton property across the river be

ROD AND GUN FOR JULY

"Men of the Hudson's Bay Company," is the title of a new continued feature which starts in the July issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. It is by N. M. W. J. McKenzie, a man who spent many years in the service of the company, and who, by reason of his long term of service, is able to present a narrative of absorbing interest, full of reminiscences of the days and the events of the North of bygone days. It will be continued in future issues of the magazine, and it is certain to prove an interesting popular feature. There is a fish story entitled "Shooting Fish," which is told in humorous vein, by that well known writer, Maximilian Foster. H. Mortimer Batten, whose work has become very popular with Rod and Gun readers, is at his best in "Firepoint," a thrilling tale. Then there are other features and articles which are well up to standard. The departments are of generous size and high quality, and altogether the July number is one of the best ever published.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rothney and family desire to convey their thanks for the many kind expressions of sympathy and the many floral tributes tendered in their recent bereavement.

Mr. Tompkins was waiting for Miss Smithers, who wawa not quite finished her toilet, Jimmy was sent down to entertain him.

"Do you like taffy?" asked Jimmy. "Very much," said Mr. Tompkins. "Here you are, then," said Jimmy, thrusting a rather sticky lump in his hand.

"Thanks," said Mr. Tompkins, regarding it doubtfully.

He would rather have thrown it out of the window, but he did not want to make an enemy of Jimmy, so he swallowed it.

"Like it?" said Jimmy.

"Very much," was the reply.

"Fido didn't; I gave it to him twice but he spit it out each time."

INDICATIONS OF CHARACTER

The hands and the mouth are supposed to indicate character more surely than any other features. We constantly hear of a hard mouth or a determined mouth, as if the set and size of the lips had much to do with force of will. Somewhat, you do not expect much from the person with large and flabby lips, while you would not look for a kindly act (to talk in Boy Scout fashion) from one whose lips are very closely pressed together. Every woman wishes to have a small mouth, but, as a matter of fact, the extremely small mouth is seldom seen. Most mouths err on the side of width—perhaps it is because we laugh and talk too much, and do not give the mouth an opportunity to rest and become a reposeful member of facial society. Generosity is supposed to be indicated by the possession of a large mouth, while the small-mouthed, thin-lipped citizen is accredited with stinginess, even unto the miserly extent.

There was a prim and proper dame in whom Dickens delighted who used to insist that the repetition of the words, pap, potatoes, prunes and prisms would have a most beneficial effect on the mouth, giving it a rosebud aspect. We fear that it might have a "lemonish" effect on most of us. Think of sitting about repeating those puckering words until the mouth became what it should. These wise reflections on the shape of the mouth remind us that a young correspondent who declares she is sixteen years of age has written to know whether the use of the lip-stick is advisable. We do not know of any girl of sixteen who needs to use any such aid to loveliness. Indeed, the natural rose which blooms on the lips of young girlhood is much better than any repairing material that the art of "beautifier" has devised. The lip-stick has its gentle uses for those of us whose roses have suffered a sad decline in color; but is very seldom needed by sweet sixteen.

As for character indicated by the lips, beware the woman of exceedingly thin and compressed lips. She usually opens them to say unkind things, and the slant of her tongue are many. That uncertain poet, Mr. William Watson, wrote a cheerful little lyric years ago concerning the "Woman with the serpent's tongue." The lines were not flattering, and they were suspected as an aspersion of various caustic ladies. The mouth, say the physiologists, is really affected by what we say. Malice writes unpleasant lines around it, while mirth makes the corners delightfully deep and suggestive of smiles. The old fairy tale about the girl who dropped tears from her mouth has a meaning—and I do not suppose that any one of us is anxious to be talking toads. Wherefore, we had better make haste to say perfectly amiable things about all our dear friends, and our mouths will become gracious and lovable in their curves.

Speaking about the hands a certain authority tells us: "Each finger has a meaning, all its own. The first finger is the dictator, the law giver, the finger of ambition. If it is unusually long and nearly equals the second finger, you can be sure that its owner can safely be allowed the control of others. He can make rules and wise ones, and see that they are carried out. But if this finger that is long, is also crooked, beware. The personal ambitions of the owner are crooked, too. The second finger, straight and well shaped, means seriousness, a little inclined to melancholy. But the owner of it can be trusted with responsibilities. If the third finger is extremely long and straight, it denotes a longing to be in the limelight—an extraordinary desire for glory. And wait until you hear about the fourth, or little finger. If long, passing the nail joint of the third finger, it indicates a marvelous gift of speech. The saying,

Send a DOMINION EXPRESS MONEY ORDER

"to twist a person around one's little finger" originated from this sign. You know how some persons can talk you into about anything. Well, look at their little finger and see if there isn't a reason. Persons with a short little finger have a hard time expressing what they want to say. They have little influence over others, and the shorter the finger, the more timid and sensitive they are. But let me tell you the best sign of all. It's when the first and third fingers are of the same length. The person so blessed is supposed to have an equally balanced mind. Now for a word or two about what tales the thumb tells. It's said to be very expressive of character. If it's large and well made, it's the outward sign of a strong-willed determined person. The longer the thumb the more the will rules the actions; the shorter, the more brute force and obstinacy control the nature. Just see how your fingers gossip about you.

"Did you know that the way you shake hands is supposed to reveal your innermost self? Beware of the person, says the palmist, whose hand seems to slip from yours when you grasp it in greeting. Such a person is deceitful and never to be trusted. A soft, fat hand, generally belongs to a lazy person, while a firm hand is the sign of an energetic, reliable nature. Then there is the very thin hand, which denotes a restless, energetic disposition, and a fretful one, too. Don't trust the person who keeps his hand is closed while talking. He can't be relied upon."

FACTS ABOUT RADIO

Radio waves in the air behave pretty much like waves in the water.

Suppose a string is attached to a stone which is plunged in and out of the water, constantly sending out wave lengths—this is just the operation of a radio transmitter during a sending.

If the stone is large and more force or pressure is put behind it, the waves will travel outward further. Just so with a radio transmitter, if the source of power is greater, the electro-magnetic waves will travel a longer distance.

But length of the wave will remain the same. The amount of power of a sending set has nothing to do with the wave length.

Wave lengths depend on the amount of reluctance and capacity in the antenna circuit of the set and the frequency with which the alternations takes place in the transmitted current.

In the transmitting instrument there is an inductance consisting of a spiral coil or heavy copper wire which is variable. By means of this more inductance may be added and the wave length increased.

If the main antenna has too much inductance and the wave length is too long, a condenser of about .001 capacity is placed in series with the length.

Wave lengths travel with the speed of light—186,000 miles a second. The waves may be sent out in one direction, if the antenna is constructed directionally.

Take a large flat stone and let the largest surface strike the water first. The waves will travel with more volume in one direction.

In radio transmitting the directional aerial is used only when the transmitting stations want to throw the most of their energy in one direction.

Broadcasting stations do not use directional antennas. They want to cover the largest possible area.

During a dinner party the conversation turned upon good-looking people. One woman said, "I think all the good-looking men have stayed away from this dinner party." The man to whom the remark was made said: "Oh, I think all the good-looking ladies are with us to-night." Then the woman thinking a compliment had been paid her, added, "Of course, I mean 'present company excepted.'" Whereupon the man said, "Oh, of course, that's what I meant to say."

A Detroit doctor is out with the theory that deep breathing is the cause of baldness. The doctor has got this thing mixed. It is the comments which bald-headed men overhear that cause the deep breathing.

Rye, New Hampshire, has passed a civic ordinance that no air ship can pass over the town at a less height than 2000 feet. Rye, always did have an elevating effect.

News Item:—"Sent to Burwash for shooting bull." If all the people who do that get forwarded to Burwash, that excellent penal settlement will soon be suffering from territorial enlargement.

A Chicago woman is suing a beauty doctor for $20,000 on the score of not delivery of the goods. If she succeeds the doctor will have wrinkles of his own and a dimple in his bank roll.

The Halifax "Herald" reports that an old lady in that vicinity saw an automobile for the first time on her 80th birthday. She was lucky. She might have seen one for the last time.

The Mennonites want to come back from Mexico because of its hot surroundings and they left Canada because of its school surroundings. Evidently a hard lot to please.

How Statler Made His Hotels Succeed

Probably there is no hotel in the U. S. which has been visited by so many Canadians as the Statler in Buffalo. There are two reasons for this. The first is that Buffalo is the nearest large American city for some millions of Canadians, and the second is that the Statler is their favorite hotel. It was the first hotel built by E. M. Statler. Later he built a hotel in Cleveland, then in Detroit, next in St. Louis and, last of all, in New York, the Pennsylvania, with 2,200 rooms with baths. A new Statler is almost completed in Buffalo, and the latest announcement is that he will build a hotel in Boston. The occasion seems fitting for some remarks concerning Mr. Statler and the means by which he has become one of the notable hotel men in the world. The data is supplied by the New York Times, which tells us that Mr. Statler began work at the age of nine. He had practically no education, and when he started work at Wheeling, West Virginia, he took a job in a glass factory, earning before he left ninety cents a day.

Fishing in Canada.

He quit his job to apply for a position as bell boy at the McClure House in Wheeling, which was considered very grand indeed, and which paid him only six dollars a month. But the work was easier, and we presume there were some tips. He advanced and became night clerk, and finally day clerk at $50 a month. But then he seemed to come against a dead wall. He made up his mind to leave, and only remained because he was able to lease the billiard room and railroad ticket concessions from the hotel, which was planning an enlargement. He made money by this deal and presently bought out a defunct bowling alley, which he divided into a billiard room, a lunch room and a barber shop. He made more money, and 15 years after having entered the hotel business was making from $4000 to $5000 a year. He felt rich enough to buy what had been denied him in his boyhood, namely, some fun and playtime. So he acquired the habit of coming up to Canada every year for a few weeks fishing.

He ate at a nearby restaurant, and the prices he paid seemed exorbitant. Thus he developed the idea of a restaurant in Buffalo. For $4000 a year he got the privilege of building and operating a restaurant on the ground floor of the Ellicott Building. Within three months he had installed $26,000 worth of equipment all on credit. Bills were presented which he could not meet. He seemed about to be ruined before he could get started, but by transferring all his property to some member of his family he defeated by a single day the legal processes that would have wiped him out. Eventually he did pay his bills, and his restaurant became popular. When the Pan-American Exposition was held in Buffalo he erected a temporary hotel of 2,100 rooms, but broke only even on the deal. Later on he got the concession for the famous Inside Inn, at St. Louis, and cleaned up more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Why He Succeeded

With this money he began the building of the Statler Hotel in Buffalo at a time when he was lying in a hospital as the result of severe burns sustained at the Inside Inn. The success of that hotel and of the others, which he has since built, is mainly due to the fact that Mr. Statler adopted, or invented, a slogan that had not previously been in general use among American hotelkeepers. That slogan is: "The Guest is Always Right." It was a greater drawing card than his plan of having a bath with every room. There probably were other hotels that acted on the same principle, but the guests may not have been aware of the fact. Mr. Statler told his employees publicly that they were not to argue with guests; they were to satisfy them. If they failed in this they had better work for somebody else. Mr. Statler says that his hotels are operated primarily for the benefit and convenience of their guests. Without guests there would be no hotels. Therefore, the prime necessity of all employees is to please these guests.

The Guest is Right

Some of the instructions and suggestions that the Statler management offers to employees are as follows: "Snap judgment of men oftentimes are faulty. A man may wear a red necktie, a green vest and tan shoes, and still be a gentleman."

"The Unpretentious Man with the soft voice may possess the wealth of Croesus. The stranger in cowhide boots, broad-brim and rusty black hat may be president of a railroad or a senator from over the ridge."

"You cannot afford to be superior or sullen with any patron of this hotel. I said so."

"At rare intervals some perverse member of our force disagrees with a guest as to the rightness of this or that."

"He maintains that the meat is well done—when the guest says it isn't."

"Or that this sauce was ordered when the guest says the other."

"Or that the boy did go up to the room."

"Or that no party called."

"Or that it was a room reserved and not dinner for six."

"Or that the trunk wasn't there."

"Either may be right."

But these are permanent instructions: "No employee of this hotel is allowed the privilege of arguing any point with a guest. He must adjust the matter at once to the guest's satisfaction, or call his superior to adjust it. Wrangling has no place in this hotel."

A farmer M.P.P. says that Raney is the biggest man in Ontario. Sure he is. If you do not believe it ask the Attorney-General.

A woman in the U. S. has received a divorce on the score of her husband devoting to much time to golf. She got so mad about it as to develop a drive which landed him off the matrimonial course.

EVENING.

After the duty and toil of the day,

Whether with sighing or laughter

twas done,

Fall the soft shadows, like mantle of grey,

Telling the course of that day has been run.

Falls a sweet calmness o'er hillside and dell,

Whisperings of happiness throb on the air,

Over the city street—magic the spell!

Wakening joy, where at noontide was care.

Comes from the vesper bells music that thrills,

Flies now the wandering bird to its nest,

Comes like a friar, the dusk o'er the hills,

Bringing for weary ones hours of rest.

New Varieties of Grain

How The New Varieties Measure Up Under Test.

The Cereal Division of the Dominion Experimental Farm system does not distribute new varieties of grain to the public until their superiority to the older sorts has been proved, and the conditions of soil and climate have been determined under which they best thrive. While a few of the new sorts described in the report of the Dominion Cerealists for 1921 will be available for distribution in the near future, the majority require further study before their exact status can be defined. In addition to the experiments and tests being conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, they are being carried on at upwards of twenty other farms and stations covering every province, four being in British Columbia, five in Alberta, three in Saskatchewan, one as well as the Central in Ontario, two in Quebec, two in Nova Scotia, and one each in Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and the Yukon Territory.

Last year there were tried out, according to this report just issued, 112 varieties of spring wheat, of which Garnet Ottawa 652 made the best record, maturing in 86 days from July 16, the date of sowing, and yielding 2,880 pounds of grain per acre; seven varieties of emmer and spelt, of which the best was Early Emmer Ottawa, maturing in 90 days from July 20, and yielding 2,280 pounds per acre; 27 varieties of oats, of which Gold Rain proved the best, yielding 2,460 pounds per acre in 85 days; 103 varieties of barley, of which Stella Ottawa 58 proved the best, the yield being 2,940 pounds in 77 days; five varieties of spring rye, of which Common yielded 2,160 pounds per acre in 85 days; 29 varieties of field peas, all sown May 6, of which Early Blue, Ottawa 21, was the earliest ripener and best yielding, the record reading 2,400 pounds per acre in 75 days; 14 varieties of field beans, all sown May 26, the best yield, or being White Pea with 3,060 pounds per acre in 99 days, taking 25 more days to ripen than Carleton Ottawa 718; 137 varieties of flax, of which the best producer was Blanc Ottawa 62, with 990 pounds per acre in 80 days, and 18 varieties of barley for hay, of which the best proved to be Forage Ottawa 675, with 14,607 pounds per acre in 61 days from July 12, the date of sowing.

Forty-four plots of flax were sown

MUST BREAK AWAY.

"The time has come when Canadian farmers must break away from the one crop system and change to the diversified and live-stock system: it may have been excusable in time past to use the fertility of the soil to build up cities, but that method must now be changed," declares Prof. P. G. Holden, of the great International Harvester Company.

Farmers cannot get hands, and city men say they cannot get jobs. Obviously it is a case of back to the land.

TRIN. MEM. CHURCH AT MONTREAL

Trinity Parish in Montrealto Build One to Honor our Glorious Dead

An enterprise, unique among efforts to commemorate permanently the splendid courage and devotion of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, is now well under way in Montreal. A fine Church will be built by Trinity Parish Corporation, in the growing suburb of Notre Dame de Grace, which in addition to making provision for the needs of its own people, numbering hundreds of families, will incorporate in its architecture, appointments, and arrangements for regular public services, every feature that can be adopted to make it a great Permanent Memorial to those who, in the Great War for the preservation of civilization, gave all that man can ever give, to the last full measure of devotion.

Before the war Trinity Church carried on its work in what was for old Montreal a good and strategic location, St. Denis Street and Place Viger Square. The traditions of "Old Trinity," built up during several decades of steadily increasing usefulness, embodied as a first principle, the rule that public services, of an inspiring and uplifting character in the Church service outside of it, in which its clergy and lay workers had the opportunity to share. All classes of the people came under the influence of the Church, whose activities were probably more varied and widespread than those of any other in the city.

But the constant operation of the law that population in all great cities tends to move westward finally brought the authorities to the decision, regretfully reached however inevitable, that the work of the Parish must be carried on from a centre in the west end of the city. A suitable site was selected in Notre Dame de Grace, on the south side of Sherbrooke street, between Marlowe and Northcliffe avenues.

As Trinity is one of the most important parishes of the Anglican Church in Canada, it was felt that the new building should be something more than a Parish Church. At the old headquarters the Church had for many years included among its parishioners, from time to time, large numbers of people only temporarily located in Montreal, and representing in the aggregate practically all sections of Canada. So the rapid growth of the city within the past ten years, while it steadily increased the number of such adherents, plainly indicated that, if this fine record for making provision for the temporary resident and casual visitor was to be maintained and strengthened, the regular congregation would have to widen their outlook, and establish the "New Trinity" on a much larger and more extensive scale.

It often happens that great ideas largely fail of realization because there is nobody with sufficient faith in the future of the cause which unites the workers to give them an adequate view of the possibilities of that future by what we commonly call "vision." In this case, however, the opportunity and the man with the degree of vision necessary to make it a reality are both at hand, and ready to be used. The Rector of "Old Trinity," Rev. Canon John M. Almond, was, and continues to be in his present capacity as Rector of the Parish which will build Trinity Memorial Church, an unusual combination of initiative and energy, with the added faculty of being able to forecast the development of anything which interests him greatly, and see what it will be ten or fifty years hence. He knows men, their hopes and ways and ideals and temperaments, as few of our Christian leaders can claim to do, partly as a result of his long and varied experience in his work in Canada's largest city, but chiefly from many years of army life, first as a chaplain to our forces during the South African War, and more recently as "Father John," Director of Canadian Chaplain Services during the long period of strife which ended in 1918. Like all far-seeing men, he realized that the great Silence of the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of that year, and the subdued rejoicing which marked relief from tension, ushered in a new period of the world's history, a time when those who could not forget would have to learn how to remember. He believes that the Church, as the world's greatest institution, should lead in encouraging the building of memorials which will be of great and constant use to the living. The idea entertained by his workers and colleagues on his Parish Corporation that Trinity Church would be of more helpful service to those who come and go, if built in a new and commanding location, was widened by him into a plan to erect a Church which would express in stone the gratitude felt by all Canadians for the devotion of those who died that we might live. Other Memorials of different kinds have been erected, many of them of some real use to the living, but nobody else has definitely outlined a plan to build a Memorial Church, which will provide, in our great commercial metropolis, regularly visited by people from all parts of Canada, a centre where all Canadians, who lost their lives in the Great War will be remembered, without regard to creed or race.

As Colonel Almond, the Officer Commanding in all religious activity undertaken for men in Canadian Overseas Forces, the Canon occupied a position which eminently fitted him for the great task he now has in hand. In common with other men of constructive thought, he believes that, with the perspective which we are already beginning to get, the war can best be understood as a struggle to maintain certain principles which were fundamentally religious. An institution intended, by its very nature, to direct, expand and carry forward all kinds of practical religious work is, therefore, the best form of thankfulness and pride in what our men did, making by tens of thousands the supreme sacrifice in order to do it. We know that no soldiers took a nobler part than ours. Appreciation of such splendid devotion can best be indicated by a permanent structure, to be used as a headquarters for a variety of helpful activity on behalf of those who live in these difficult days of peace and readjustment, and of those who will follow them, inherit their hopes and carry forward their problems somewhat nearer to solution in a country which has only begun to make its contribution to the world's life. The number of people who are convinced that the atmosphere of religion and worship solves more problems than any other is steadily increasing in Canada. Canon Almond believes that it will solve them all. He will provide in the new Church daily services for the worship of Almighty God, on the broadest and most liberal lines. Trinity Memorial Church will stand from the first for Constructive Christianity.

And, in his program for the usefulness of the new Church, something else will be provided. At some suitable early morning hour every day there will be a Celebration of the Holy Communion. In that service, which is the most important of all in the Anglican Church, occurs the noble "Prayer for the Whole State of Christ's Church Militant here in Earth," which, as all Anglicans, and many who belong to other Churches, are aware, ends with the sentence beginning "And we also bless Thy Holy Name for all Thy servants departed this life in Thy faith and fear." At that point in the prayer will be inserted the words, "especially those who on this day of the year gave their lives in the Great War for the preservation of freedom and civilization." This will afford an opportunity for people in all parts of Canada, who know the days on which their friends and relatives were killed in action, or died of wounds or disease, or were lost at sea, to have them remembered by name in the concluding words of the "Prayer for the Church Militant," which is intended to establish the truth that, whether nations are at war or not, the Church is always in conflict with everything that tends to debase and degrade mankind, and always mindful of the sacrifice and service of those who have given of their best to uplift their fellows, and promote peace and happiness among them. Those who would like to have their own glorious dead permanently remembered in this way, on their own particular anniversaries, should send names, regimental numbers, army units and other necessary information to be recorded in the Memorial Church Book of Remembrance, accompanied by whatever subscription to the building fund they can afford to give, to Rev. Canon John M. Almond, D.C.L., C.M.G., Trinity Memorial Church, Claremont Avenue, Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal.

VALUE OF MILK IN THE DIET

Some Pointed and Pertinent Queries for Dairywomen.

The chief duty of the milk specialist, Miss Helen G. Campbell, of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is to disseminate information on the value as a food of milk and dairy products generally. That she is fulfilling her task her recently published pamphlet entitled "Why and How to Use Milk" is abundant proof. Miss Campbell deals further with the subject in the May-June Agricultural Gazette under the heading "The Dietary Value of Milk." In this article, backed up by the universally acknowledged authority of Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, it is shown how milk adds to the nutritive value of cereals in body building, and consequently how important its generous consumption is to children particularly, and to adults generally. Milk in any form contributes to the making of bone and muscle and to the preservation of health. It contains the elements that our systems most require, such as mineral matter, lime and phosphate, and to a lesser extent iron, and a pleasant and necessary quantity of fat. It is helpful against scurvy and promotive of a clear, healthy skin. It is the main sustenance of the infant as well of the invalid in many cases.

In dealing with the subject the writer puts some pointed questions, which it would be well if every milk producer could answer in the affirmative. She asks for instance, if as much care as possible is exercised to keep the milk from contamination, if covered milk pails are used, if cows are cleaned and curried as they should be and their udders washed before milking, if clean hands, clean clothes,

HOW IT GOT ITS NAME.

When Captain Cook's expedition anchored off the coast of Australia one of the first things the explorer did was to send some of his men ashore with instructions to bring back specimens of the plants, flowers and animals which appeared to be distinctive of the country. Two of the sailors returned with a beast which had extremely long hind legs, short fore paws and an exceptionally well developed tail. Cook, who had never seen anything of the kind, about the strange animal and sent the sailors back to discover by what name the natives called it.

Upon their return they reported that the nearest they could come to the native name was "kan-garoo." "At least," as one of the men declared, "that's what all the natives said when I pointed to the animal." So, when Cook returned home, he brought with him the body of an animal which was introduced to natural history under the name of "kan-garoo." It was not until a number of years later that it was found that "kan-garoo" was the native Australian equivalent for "I do not understand," which was the reason that the natives said this when Cook's men asked them a question in a strange language!

FOREST FIRES AND THE CITIZEN

Forest fires have made such inroads upon Canada's forests, that no citizen having the country's interests at heart can refrain from adopting every sensible precaution in his personal conduct. Unextinguished camp fires, lighted matches, and tobacco have robbed the nation of millions of dollars in public-owned property. To leave a camp fire burning while in or near standing timber is a plain invitation to a disaster. The lighted match and the cigarette is in the same category.

The only one who is entitled to live is the fellow who works.

Last week we had an exceptionally large shipment of fruits and salad vegetables, and preserving strawberries. Yet everything went off like butter in the sun. This week raspberries will be in—as only a few will come in from time to time it would be advisable to order early so that you may be guaranteed in getting your supply. Telephone to us and we will protect you—in fact we are a little more particular on phone orders, for when you buy yourself you can take care of your own orders. In ordering by phone it is up to us to protect you and send the best. Strawberries are already gone, although a limited quantity will come in from time to time.

On Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, etc., we are dividing our profits with you. It is impossible for a merchant to make the old-time percentage. If he can live and pay his way till another harvest it is all he can expect. White Wear is cheaper than last year—prints and ginghams are getting cheaper. F. Cutler was a business visitor to Calgary on Thursday and Friday of last week.

The deep hole in the river behind the Customs house is a favorite spot these sultry days.

The local lodge of the L.O.O.F. will install their officers for the current term this evening (Thursday).

Miss Charlotte Flesher, of Barons, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Charlton, 18th street.

Roy Charlton returned to Macleod on Saturday last after a two week's vacation spent at Waterton Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith, of Macleod, returned home on Tuesday last from their honeymoon trip to the coast.

Mr. Davis, of Claresholm, and Miss Veronah Parker were among the week-end visitors to Waterton Lakes.

E. H. Teagle, assistant manager, Calgary Division Imperial Oil, Ltd., was a business visitor in Macleod last Friday.

The Granum U.F.A. held their annual picnic on the polo grounds Dominion Day, a most enjoyable time being spent.

Dominion Day passed off very quietly in town. Picnic parties, of which there were several, put in the day very enjoyably, the weather being ideal.

Highland pipers, in full regalia, paraded the main streets on Dominion Day the skirling of the pipes drawing together a most appreciative crowd of all ages.

Mrs. Gardiner, of Macleod, was a guest at the home of Mrs. W. L. McKenzie during her attendance at the district W. C. T. U. convention.—Lethbridge Herald.

A. L. Porte, who is one of the oldest Dominion Government immigration agents, located at Spokane, is in the city going over the irrigation projects prior to a campaign for irrigation settlers.—Lethbridge Herald.

A quiet but a very pretty wedding was solemnized last Monday morning, in the R. C. Church, Macleod, when Mr. Adolph McPherson and Miss Alice McLoughlin, both of Macleod, were made man and wife, the Rev. Father Rouleau officiating. The groom was assisted by Mr. Richard Walsh, and the bride by Miss Nellie Hamilton. The bride's dress was of navy blue with hat to match. The happy couple left for Banff and other points on the afternoon train for their honeymoon. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. McPherson join in wishing them the best.

is the science of analyzing and measuring the kind and the amount of error in defective vision. Most people suffer from some form of defective vision so that a pair of perfect eyes is rare.

To properly correct defects in vision requires study and experience in the fitting of lenses and frames.

We have for many years devoted special attention to the examination of eyes and the fitting of glasses.

Miss Helen Parker and Misses Kathleen and Margaret McCartin, are spending their holidays at Banff.

Harold McCrea and John Dillingham left on Monday morning to spend a few days at Calgary Exhibition.

Macleod and district residents who attended the Allenfields U.F.A. picnic and dance report having had a most enjoyable time.

A great many people from far-distant points have passed through town recently. They are very much impressed with the Macleod district.

Fine weather for picnicking parties. McLean's ranch on Willow Creek is a drawing card this week with the Sunday School children and their teachers.

H. Little claims to have the finest looking field of wheat in this neighborhood, it being two feet in height and already headed out. He has a 100 acre patch of it.

The new electric light poles that will bear a greatly reduced mileage of wire are being set up this week under the able supervision of the town's superintendent, Mr. V. Pearson.

Monday last was one of the hot days we read about. "Jim" Sutherland says it was 96 degrees at the lumber yard. Certainly a lumber yard is the last place a man would think of cooling off in.

Frank Velliecott, H. C. Winter and Rob Hamilton were fishing in the Middle Fork over the holidays and reported some very good catches. Mr. Velliecott was successful in landing a trout weighing over three pounds.

No trace of the body of the woman Aitchison supposed to have met death in the river near Macleod on June 18th has as yet been discovered and those who maintain she was not drowned point to this fact in support of their contention.

Langlin, the Frenchwoman who holds the world's tennis championship, retains her title, having defeated Miss McKane, of England, on the 30th ult., 6-1, 7-5. Miss. Mallory, the U. S. champion, defeated Mrs. Bullock, of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-2.

Serious forest fires are said to have caused considerable damage to the standing timber in the far north during the last two or three weeks. Evidently that section of the country was not treated to the heavy rains we have been receiving here in the south of late.

Hail visited the district north of the river on Tuesday afternoon. At the lower crossing of Will v Creek no damage was done, but farther north and east it was much heavier and it is feared serious damage was done the standing crops, as it is said hail to the depth of nearly two inches covered the ground.

The Allenfield celebration held on Dominion Day, July 1st, was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the district, and a very happy day was spent. There were some very exciting running, jumping and other events and a base ball match, which was won by the home team, as was also the football match, the music during the day was greatly enjoyed. A dance concluded the day's outing. The Allenfields people are believers in making a success of everything they undertake and are successful.

Among the many picnics on Saturday last, the 1st of July, the children of the Catholic Separate school of Macleod had the time of their lives, at their picnic across the river, where foot, sack and other races were indulged in, the winner in each event securing a good prize. The base ball game was certainly exciting. Mr. H. Smith having no errors to his credit in the left garden; with the batting of Mr. W. J. Ryan, the fielders of the opposing team played a good and snappy game. Mr. Joe Lemire, umpire, was called upon to give close decisions. The many good things to eat were all that the heart could desire.

A Claresholm correspondent to the Lethbridge Herald on the 22nd ult., complains that 56 fishing licenses have been issued to local sports during the present season but that there are no streams in which these people are allowed to fish. But really is it any wonder that owners of lands through which trout streams meander, are averse to allowing every Tom, Dick and Harry to whip the water in their quest for the elusive trout? Time was when Trout Creek, Brown Creek and other streams in the foothills afforded excellent sport for the disciples of Sir Isaac. When settlers began to come in they spent their week-ends along all these streams catching everything that bore a fin. Fish under a certain size were ripped off the hook and left to rot on the banks. Macleod fishermen lost their finest fishing grounds through just such unsportsmanlike conduct. There are human hogs everywhere and the innocent must always suffer for their meanness. Owners of trout streams, remembering past experiences, do well to refuse a right-of-way over their premises and by so doing will be giving the fish a

The Methodist Church school children held their annual school picnic on Dominion Day, the youngsters turning out in full force to observe the happy occasion. Those of our townspeople who wish to have their names added to the Memorial Tablet Fund are requested to leave their contributions with the manager of the Union Bank, as it is expected the Memorial will be completed this week, the stone, which weighs some six tons, having arrived here.

This is an advertisement appearing in the Calgary Herald of June 28th: "For sale, ladies' riding or draping outfit, two plaid velour side drapes, two pairs cretonne curtains." A reader claims the side drapes are all O.K., but asks where the curtains fit in in connection with this outfit. We give it up. Women and their clothes have always been a mystery to us.

The many friends of E. F. May the improvement continue and a perfect cure effected is the wish of "Teddy's" friends both in town and country.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNab, of Slide Out, entertained a number of their Macleod friends on Saturday, the 1st. Mr. McNab is a pioneer in that district and owns one of the prettiest places out there, his garden at this season running riot with a grand display of trees, many of which are of good size. A privately owned irrigation ditch waters a considerable acreage and a field of alfalfa of goodly height thus watered is about ready to cut, and will yield heavily. Verily, water is king! While on the subject of water it might be as well to mention there is a dandy "swimming hole" not far distant from the ranch, which attracted the Macleod visitors by reason of its inviting coolness, but—sometimes one can get too much of a good thing, and this was

Annual training will be completed by attendance at 12 evening parades for which those in attendance will be entitled to draw 6 days pay for their rank. The pay of a gunner or driver is $1.25 a day and is increased for service in the C. E. F. The pay of higher ranks is larger and depends on the qualifications of those concerned. A number of those who complete their training will be selected for the firing detachment which goes to Calgary on July 25th for a period of six days. Those who attend the annual training are not obliged to go to Calgary. The annual inspection by Gen. Bell will be held on July 18th and it

It is maintained that during the hard winter had it not been for the much despised Russian thistle there would not have been a single head of cattle left in the country. This may be a slight exaggeration but the fact remains that owing to the scarcity and price of imported hay cattle would have had a hard time of it without the fodder put up earlier in the season which consisted entirely of the thistle.
